FEDERAL FORCES WITHDRAW FROM KIDNAPING CASE

Hope Abductors May Move To Return Wife Of Californian

Yuba City, Calif., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Federal and state forces were abruptly withdrawn from the hunt for kidnapers of Mrs. W. R. Meeks in what observers suggested today might be a move to permit her abductors to make a contact with her orchardist-husband.

Shortly after Governor Frank Merriam recalled 120 national guardsmen and 100 state highway patrolmen, N. J. L. Pieper, Federal Bureau of Investigation chief from San Francisco, announced the FBI was withdrawing from the case.

"There is no evidence, thus far," Pieper said, "of the violation of any federal law. I am withdrawing FBI men from the case but the facilities of our office will be open."

The "G-men" withdrew just 24 hours after Meeks reported two roughly-dressed men had kidnaped his 55-year-old wife, demanding $15,000 ransom.

Ranchers who had joined in yesterday's extensive hunt for the trace of the kidnapers or Mrs. Meeks' body, expressed belief that outside law agents withdrew to permit the abductors to give Meeks details of how to pay the ransom.

Expresses Fears

Sheriff Bert Ulrey, who again assumed full charge of the hunt, expressed fear for the life of Mrs. Meeks, who he said was in the hands of desperate men.

"We are hoping that our search does not yield the body of Mrs. Meeks," he said, "but there is a possibility that it may."

Meeks, who said he could not raise $15,000 even if he sold his ranch and all his other possessions, was quoted by Sheriff Ulrey as saying the two men accosted him and his wife about midnight Thursday, shortly after the departure of some guests.

One man was armed, Meeks related, and the pair bound the couple, ransacked the house, then carried Mrs. Meeks outside and put her in the rancher's automobile, which was found abandoned in Marysville, 12 miles away, several hours later.

"Unless you pay $15,000 by midnight Saturday you'll never see your wife again," Meeks said one of the abductors told him.

"We'll contact you in a couple of days for that $15,000."

Youth and Bride of Seventeen are Free

New York, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Nijib Toonie, 27-year-old Arabian telephone engineer and his bride of a week, 17-year-old Doris Hissaw Toonie, a Missouri farm girl, were free to continue their honeymoon today.

U. S. Commissioner Garrett W. Cotter quickly dismissed a Mann act charge instituted against Toonie in St. Louis several days ago by the girl's father after John J. Dowling, assistant federal district attorney, said the couple was legally married and the father's allegations were not supported.

The couple walked into the Federal Bureau of Investigation office yesterday and said: "We understand we are wanted."

They had seen published reports that they were sought by federal officials after their elopement August 24 from the girl's home at Neosho, Mo.

They gaily left the federal building after the dismissal and announced they would sail next week for the bridegroom's home in Basra, Iraq, where he is in charge of the city's telephone system.

Receiver Asked for Cole-Beatty Circus

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Four employees of the Cole Bros.-Clyde Beatty Circus, Inc., of Rochester, Ind., filed a suit in federal court today asking that the circus be placed in receivership.

The four claimed the circus owed them $1,500 and that its tangible property was transferred to The Associates Investment Company of South Bend to "defraud creditors." The investment firm held a chattel mortgage of $40,000 on the property.

The circus cut short its tour of the country several weeks ago, and weather and poor attendance were blamed.

PULLING RECORD

Des Moines, Ia.—(AP)—Duke and King, a 4,335-pound team of horses from the Cedarville farm, Plano, Ill., claimed the new heavy-weight team-pulling record for Iowa at the Centennial fair yesterday. They pulled 3,625 pounds the required distance of 27 feet, six inches, bettering the old record of 3,260 pounds. The world's record of 3,900 pounds also is claimed for the pair.

No Reception

Crisfield, Md., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Mayor William E. Ward of Crisfield declared today there would be no official reception for President Roosevelt when he lands Monday for a campaign swing on the eastern shore in behalf of Rep. David J. Lewis, New Deal candidate for the Democratic senatorial nomination.

Mayor Ward, a Republican, was elected last January.

"If Mr. Roosevelt was coming to Crisfield as President of the United States, I would be only too glad to meet him and extend the hospitality of the city due the occupant of that great office," the mayor said.

"But Mr. Roosevelt is coming to the eastern shore as a politician and so I am not going to pay any attention to him."

"There isn't going to be any decoration of the town either, unless somebody wants to pay for it out of his own pocket."

DEATH OF OHIO MAN ACCIDENT, JURY 'DECIDED'

A coroner's jury late yesterday afternoon decided that Adolph Gustafson of Ohio met death by shock and injuries accidentally sustained in an automobile accident last Sunday afternoon about 4 o'clock on the Harmon spur in Marion township. Dr. Kenyon B. Segner conducted the inquest at the Staples mortuary at 4 o'clock yesterday with two witnesses to testify, Fred W. Bauer of Mendota and Lawrence Cramer of Dixon.

Bauer stated that he and his wife were driving west on the Harmon spur when the Gustafson car approached from the rear at a high rate of speed, skidded in the gravel as the driver attempted to pass, turning over several times and coming to a stop in a corn field. Gravel thrown by the rolling car shattered the windshield of Bauer's auto and also damaged the body of the car, he told the jury. Nathan Donavon lay in a furrow at the edge of the corn field and he called for his brother and begged to be taken to a hospital. His brother John lay on the ground, unconscious and bleeding, and Gustafson, who died at the scene lay partly in the wrecked car asking to be lifted to his feet. Mr. Bauer testified, in relating his inspection of the wreck. He notified a farmer living nearby who went to Harmon to summon an ambulance and physician and returned with several cars and persons, the witness stated.

Lawrence Cramer of this city, who was visiting at the John Blackman farm home, testified that he was driving west toward Harmon with members of the Blackman family when he observed several cars and their occupants at the scene and stopped and viewed the wreckage. His testimony corroborated that of the Mendota resident.

Rumors that the oil drilling operations are to be started in May township, where several years ago a number of promising holes were sunk, were widely circulated here today. From one source it was reported that agents who appeared as representatives of "eastern capital," are attempting to secure leases on several farms in the field which years ago was the scene of extensive drilling operations.

According to reports about 500 acres of land have been secured by leases and several other promising farms are being sought before the operations are begun. Two agents have been active in Dixon this week attempting to secure signed leases for farm lands located in the area where drilling operations were conducted a number of years ago, and have assured the owners that activity is to be started as soon as the desired acreage can be secured.

SWIMMING POOL THEME OF TALKS BEFORE COUNCIL

Delegation of Citizens Argues for Such in Loveland Building

Attorney Elwin Wadsworth, Principal B. J. Frazer of the high school, and Dr. C. E. Smith accompanied a delegation of citizens which attended the Friday evening meeting of the city council and championed the cause of a swimming pool for Dixon. During the hour long discussion in which the speakers sought the cooperation of the city council in an effort to obtain a pool in the proposed Loveland Community building, Attorney Wadsworth and Principal Frazer told the council: "We will have a swimming pool."

Commissioner Cal G. Tyler presented a motion before the council after a lengthy talk in which he favored a pool for Dixon and its children, the commission voting to favor a meeting of the park district, city council and Loveland Community house trustees to discuss the subject of a swimming pool.

Attorney Wadsworth began the discussion by stating that the people of Dixon anticipated a pool being provided for in the plans for the Community House, and that when the plans were presented and no such provision was made, the public was quite disappointed. Public opinion, he said, had reached a point, "where the citizens are going to have a pool some way or other."

Would Seek Grant

He discussed at length plans which he suggested to provide a pool, the most important of which called for the application for a federal relief grant to create a fund amounting to $185,000 to be made available for the pool and other recreational projects. "We are not in accord with the stand taken by the trustees," he told the council. "Mr. Loveland left to the city of Dixon this sum of money, and as beneficiary the citizens can act only through the members of this council."

The attorney also suggested a bond issue to underwrite the construction of a pool.

Commissioner Cal Tyler expressed himself as being very much in favor of a swimming pool in Dixon, particularly for the use of the children and to prevent the loss of life in Rock river, as well as providing healthful recreation. In place of a bowling alley and shooting gallery in the Community building, the commissioner favored a suitable room and equipment where "the little fellow can enjoy basketball, fencing, boxing and similar healthful sports." A $5,000 deficit, he added, represented a great deal of money insofar as the city is concerned, but is not to be considered when a life is at stake and can be saved.

Suggests Bond Issue

Dr. Smith was the next speaker and told the council that in his opinion, Mr. and Mrs. Loveland when drafting the will did not appreciate the changing times in which swimming pools have rapidly gained in popularity. He told the council that while a charge is being made to bathe in Rock river at Lowell park, contrary to the provisions of the gift of the land, a plan could be worked out to provide a charge at the pool in the Community building. In the event of a bond issue the speaker suggested that the citizens of Dixon purchase the bonds, but Mayor Slothower stated that bond houses refused to consider such an issue and that the purchasers of such bonds would receive nothing for them. Dr. Smith suggested a year-round

PARK OFFICERS SUGGESTED PAR- LEY IN JANUARY

Appropos a suggestion made at last evening's city council meeting that the Dixon Park Board, the trustees of the Loveland Community building and the council confer on means of securing a swimming pool the following statement was made today in behalf of the Park Board:

The suggestion of the council that there be a conference of city and park board officials and the Loveland trustees is in entire harmony with the proposal long ago made by the Park Board on this subject. On January 7, 1938, the Park Board wrote the Loveland trustees answering their published request for suggestions regarding the community house. "We are submitting to you a tentative plan in which the Loveland trustees, Park Board and City of Dixon may collaborate in an improvement that we feel sure would meet with the hearty approval of the people of Dixon. This, in our opinion, is an opportunity for your Board, the Park Board, and the City of Dixon to work together for an improvement that would meet with a whole-hearted public acceptance. We are ready at such times as will suit your convenience to enter upon conferences for the consideration of this matter."

The policy of the Park Board now regarding conferences on this subject is the same as it was when we made the original proposal.

POSSIBILITY OF CROSS-PARTIES' ACTIVITY SEEN

Reaction to President's Announcement Varied Greatly Today

Washington, Sept. 3.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's avowed favor for "liberal" candidates, even if Republican, set politicians speculating today on the possibility of cross-party activity by the White House in the fall congressional campaigns.

While the president said in discussing the subject at his press conference yesterday that he was talking about principles and not specific candidates, his statement that "the good of the country rises above party" created these questions:

Would he seek to give practical effect to the assertion by approving candidacies of other than Democratic party members?

In a race between a Republican he considered "liberal" and a Democrat he viewed as "conservative" would he espouse the candidacy of the Republican?

Roosevelt's summation of the principle involved was that he had not "the slightest objection" to election of a "good liberal" running on a Republican ticket, and he said he thought such a man would serve the country better than a "conservative" Democrat.

Quick Reaction
The statement stirred quick reaction in both Republican and Democratic quarters.

John Hamilton, Republican national chairman, challenged the president's conception of "liberalism," saying "the true Republicans running for congress this year are liberals and most of the Democrats seeking re-election are not."

He declared he could not believe that Mr. Roosevelt actually means what he says, because if he does his statement constitutes a repudiation of the New Deal and a large number of his followers on Capitol Hill.

Senator Logan (D-Ky.), usually a strong supporter of the president's views, said he believed in staying within party lines.

Victor Harding, secretary of the Democratic congressional campaign committee, which aids Democrats nominated to the house, made this statement: "The Democratic national congressional campaign committee

Board Sans Powers to Apply for WPA Loan for Highway

At a special meeting of the board of supervisors called today to consider making application for a federal PWA grant in constructing an improved highway south and west from the village of Nelson, the resolution was lost. The board members were informed that they were without authority to make application for the federal grant.

Two agents of the narcotic division of the federal internal revenue department appeared before the board and asked the co-operation of every member in eradicating the marijuana weed, wild hemp in Lee county. The board members agreed to notify thistle commissioners in the several townships at once and wage a campaign in their respective townships to destroy the drug producing weed.

National Anthem

Sandusky, Ohio, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Only three out of 100 persons know the second verse of The Star Spangled Banner, the national anthem.

That's what a survey by Elmer Frank, director of the Sandusky Choral Society, showed.

So today Frank, who will lead more than 3,000 voices in the music festival at a program September 8-11 in memory of Oliver Hazard Perry and the Battle of Lake Erie, asked the committee to print 3,000 copies of the second verse.

'Lady' Can Secure Machines from Cops

Chicago, Sept. 3.—(AP)—The state's attorney's police possessed a sewing machine today as a result of the current raids on handbooks.

It was found by axe-wielding officers yesterday while they were chopping up the furnishings of the 46th handbook raided during the past fortnight. It was tagged: "Personal loan, Lady, 2."

Lieut. Thomas Kelly said the woman can have her sewing machine if she can prove it's hers, whether she won the race bet or not.

Several women have dropped knitting and crochet work in their hurry to leave during raids. A man patron left so hurriedly yesterday that he forgot his crutch.

MARIJUANA WEED ERADICATION IS URGED BY GOV'T.

Federal Agents in Lee County Enlist Aid in Destruction

Members of the Lee county board of supervisors, Farm Bureau members, the county organization of the American Legion, township officials, farm owners and tenants were solicited today by two agents of the narcotic division of the Internal Revenue department to wage a campaign of destruction against marijuana or wild hemp. The agents called on Sheriff Ward Miller today and announced the immediate intensive drive to rid Lee county of the drug-producing weed which is growing profusely on hundreds of acres.

Sheriff Miller appealed to Commander-elect J. M. Brady of Dixon post, No. 12, American Legion, and officers of the Lee county Farm Bureau and arranged to have the federal agents appear before the board of supervisors, which is in special session at the court house today, to enlist their aid in the campaign of destruction.

Can Be Prosecuted

Investigation in Lee county has developed the fact that marijuana or wild hemp is growing in all parts of the county, the agents stated. State and federal laws prohibit the growth of the weed, and owners of farm lands can be prosecuted for permitting the drug weed to grow.

Three varieties of marijuana, or wild hemp exist in the middle western states, the leaves having either three, five or seven points. Farmers were urged to cut down the patches immediately and burn the weeds. The agents stated that at present and for the next six weeks, wild hemp seeds were ripening and would fall from the plants to provide another crop next season. For this reason immediate action was urged to destroy the rank growth throughout the county which is greater this year than ever before because of the long wet season, the agents pointed out.

Agents of the narcotics division, it was stated, would be assigned to make regular inspection tours of all the townships, to enforce the state and federal laws in exterminating the weed.

Rockford Man Hurt In Highway Crash

Belvidere, Ill., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Victor C. Tullis, 55, of Brooklyn, Wis., was killed and C. E. Lindberg, 49, head of the house of Lindberg, a Rockford furniture store, was critically injured today when automobiles they drove collided at the intersection of state routes 173 and 76 north of here.

Lindberg is in the Highland hospital suffering from a fractured leg, cuts, bruises and a probable skull fracture.

Sycamore, Ill., Sept. 3.—Ellis Colvin, 46, of DeKalb, a WPA worker, is being treated for a broken arm, sustained when he fell while leaning on his shovel in a gravel quarry near Sycamore, from which material is being taken for a WPA concrete sidewalk project.

Dixon Public Library Believed Victimized in New Kind Racket

A new racket is being investigated today by Chief of Police J. D. Van Bibber who has made a report to the state criminal investigation agency at Springfield in an effort to locate operators of the scheme, to which his attention was called yesterday afternoon.

On Aug. 5 a well dressed young man went to the Dixon public library and selected several volumes on science and advanced engineering. He complied with the library rules by furnishing his name and address, which he gave as Thomas Donehome, 618 Ottawa avenue, and the name of his employer. He also furnished the recommendation of a prominent Dixon professional man, and obtained volumes valued at about $50. Several of the volumes were recently purchased and were the latest authorities.

Scotch Thistles

Evansville, Ill., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Because the late James A. "Wheat King" Patten liked Scotch thistles, auctioneers were dubious today about the success of the sale of furnishings in his mansion.

Nine marble and mahogany fireplaces are carved in a thistle pattern, the hands of a specially-made grandfather's clock are cut out like thistles, and a thistle design predominates in the mullioned windows.

The flooring, light fixtures, wall paper, and table legs also carry the thistle motif.

Even the angels in a wall mural carry thistles.

EUROPE DREADS NAZI DECISIONS ABOUT MINORITY

Berchtesgaden, Germany, Sept. 3.—(AP)—The supposition persisted today that Adolf Hitler told the leader of Nazis in Czechoslovakia to insist on official recognition of national socialism by the Czech government.

Hitler kept his counsel about decisions he arrived at in conferences Thursday and Friday with Konrad Henlein, leader of the autonomy-seeking, Nazi-supported Sudeten German minority in the neighbor country.

So did Henlein. So, also, did other Nazi officials who attended the fateful discussions about the next step in the Czech-German dispute about minority rights.

Officials shrugged their shoulders when asked about the Berchtesgaden consultations. There was much speculation which ended with "There's always an unknown quantity—Der Fuehrer." It was said, however, that if Hitler advised moderation in the dispute he had reversed his attitude because he has been opposed to compromise.

It was considered extremely significant that the anti-Czech press campaign the controlled Nazi press has waged the past months continued unabated today. Close followers of the present crisis and previous similar campaigns point out with assurance that had Henlein and Hitler arrived at a complete decision to make peace with the Praha government the attacks would have ceased today.

Those who had expected an amelioration today asked themselves: "Is the tension would continue and whether they could expect another 'Saturday surprise' like the announcement of German re-armament, re-militarization of the Rhineland or annexation of Austria—all of which had something to do with Saturday."

Corrigan's Brother Near Crash Today

Pittsburgh, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Douglas Corrigan took off from the Allegheny county airport today and, circling over the field, saw his brother, Harry, narrowly escape disaster in another plane.

As Douglas arrived at the airport with a motorcycle police escort, Harry streaked from the sky, two hours overdue from Baltimore, and taxied up to the administration building.

The brothers chatted briefly, then Douglas took off in his famous $900 transatlantic "crate," and Harry followed, taking off "down wind." The ship roared the entire length of the runway and rose from the ground just at the end. Airport attendants thought certainly he would crash.

Both brothers left for Cleveland, Harry, who hadn't told Douglas he was coming here, explained he was delayed when he ran into fog near Waynesburg, in southwestern Pennsylvania.

ALLEGED MANSLAUGHTER

Jacksonville, Ill., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Fred Leneke of near Meredosia was arrested on a manslaughter charge today in connection with the auto accident deaths of Mrs. Roy Miller, 27, and her daughter Lorena Mae, 7.

A coroner's jury recommended Leneke be held to the grand jury after his car fatally injured the mother and daughter late Wednesday on a highway near Meredosia.

CLODBURSTS IN COLORADO CAUSE DEATHS, DAMAGES

Report Twelve Persons Are Missing in Two Resort Areas

Denver, Sept. 3.—(AP)—At least five persons were dead and 12 were missing in the wake of cloudburst floods that destroyed scores of buildings in two Colorado resort towns and washed three feet deep in a coal mining town.

Four bodies were found in Bear creek near Morrison, a resort center, 15 miles southwest of Denver, that was battered by converging flood crests roaring down Bear Creek canyon and Mount Vernon canyon.

A fifth victim, Mrs. Walter Boyd, about 30, drowned when an automobile driven by her husband, a Louisville, Colo., physician, plunged into flooded Coal creek at a bridge washout.

The body of a woman found in Bear Creek was identified as that of Mrs. Cecil Goodrich. The bodies of a boy about 12, another woman and a man also found in Bear creek have not been identified.

The 12 missing were reported in the Bear Creek area.

Damage Not Estimated

No authoritative estimate was available for total damage in the floods that washed an area extending almost 100 miles from Morrison north to Fort Collins.

The flood wall in South Boulder canyon which smashed a dance hall, cottages and concession buildings at Eldorado Springs ripped at least 17 washouts in 14 miles of track on the Denver & Salt Lake railroad's Moffat tunnel route.

German Press Holds Czechs Responsible For Possible Strife

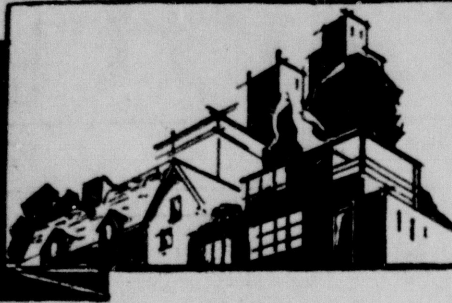

Berlin, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Germany's controlled press holds Czechoslovakia responsible should the Sudeten German minority problem embroil Europe in conflict.

Almost daily, newspapers present in varying degrees of intensity a picture of what a section of the public interprets as possible war "causes"—especially in the light of Chancellor Adolf Hitler's pledges to protect Germans outside the Reich and to defend Europe against Bolshevism.

The papers hammer away at the thought that the British, who have sent an unofficial mission of mediators to Czechoslovakia, simply do not understand the situation when they demand sacrifices by the Sudeten Germans.

Typical was an editorial today in the Hamburger Fremdenblatt, which said:

"As the Sudeten have-nots, deprived of their rights, have nothing to give, but,

QUST HEATING PROBLEMS NOW

Fall Ideal Time to Eliminate Petty Disturbances in System

During the fall is an ideal time to eliminate minor heating troubles. By attending to the heating system at this time, immediately before the long winter pull, the home owner can advise his heating contractor of those troubles which are fresh in his mind. If the work is postponed until the beginning of next winter's cold spell, important repairs which might be needed will be forgotten or, if neglected until a severe cold snap makes the problem again evident, there may be insufficient time to have the work done.

Furthermore, a heating plant is likely to deteriorate more rapidly when not in use unless it is conditioned against adverse circumstances.

All the broken mortar joints and cracks in the masonry used as foundations in or around the heating plant should be pointed up and any defective masonry parts replaced. The masonry of the chimney should also be repaired and the stone or cement capping, if loosened, should be replaced.

The chimney breechings, the boiler and the furnace should be thoroughly cleaned out of all soot and ashes for soot left in such places as the smoke pipe and the inner passages of the boiler absorbs dampness from the air and a form of sulphuric acid will be the result. This eats into and corrodes and rusts the metal. After the dust and soot are carefully removed from the inner passages of the boiler, then all inner surfaces should be sprayed with oil.

Broken or defective grates should be repaired or replaced and loose firebricks and warm air jackets cemented or lined.

Steam and hot water pipes and warm air ducts may require new insulation.

The edges and hinges of the furnace and boiler doors should be well oiled and paint applied to stop deterioration from dampness. It is best to leave some of the doors open during the summer in order to allow for a circulation of air.

It is also considered good practice to leave water in steam and hot water boilers because the water has been heated frequently and is comparatively free of air. This results in less corrosion during the summer.

Drain the boiler and clean out all sediment in the fall before starting up the heating unit for the winter.

ZIGLERS TELL OF HAPPY TRIP

Traveled 7,000 Miles Over Excellent Highways in the West

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Zigler and children James and Mary Louise of near Sterling have just returned from a 7,000 mile trip through the west. They found the roads excellent and the weather fine. The first stop was at Estes Park and then on through the Rocky Mountain Park where 45 miles of its highway reaches an elevation of 12,183, the highest motor road in North America. Summer is only a word here, with its towering snow-capped mountains and iceberg lakes.

After leaving the park they visited a dinosaur quarry which has recently been discovered and is being unearthed by the government. The area contains the most remarkable fossil remains ever found of the gigantic dinosaur.

From Salt Lake City they drove through the Great Salt Desert the highway being 102 miles long. It is here in the Bonneville salt flats that is now used as a speedway for motor racing for speed kings from different parts of the world.

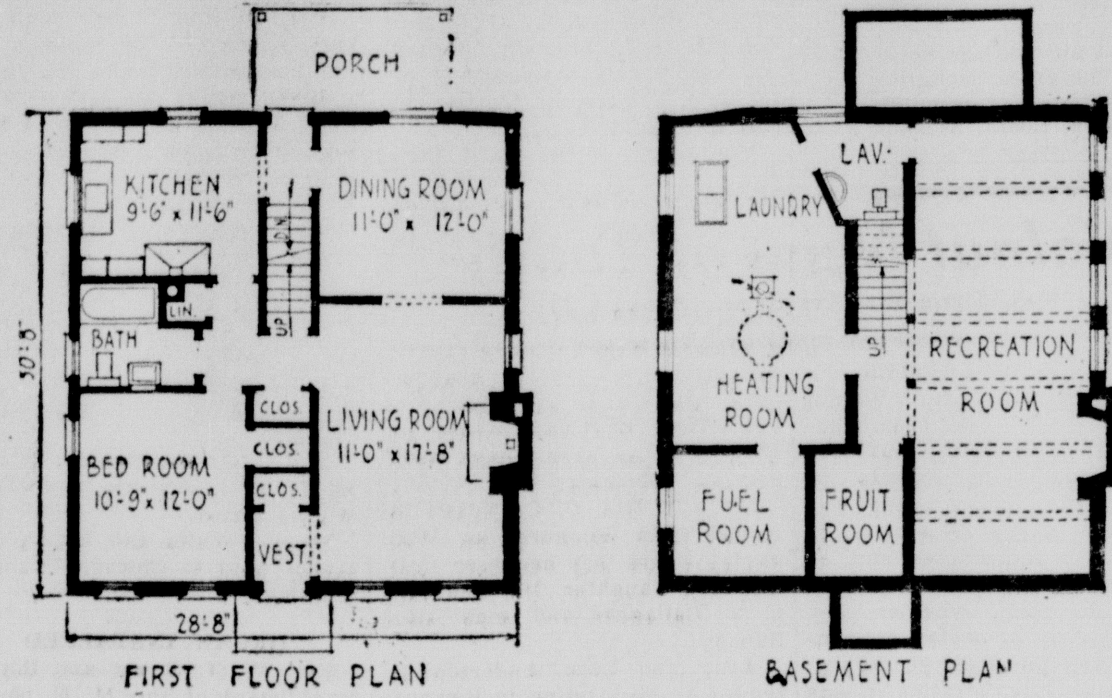

From here they drove to the Lassen Volcanic National Park. This park contains the only recently active volcano in the United States. Since 1916 no eruption has taken place, although there is proof of internal heat from the sulphurous odors that rise from the ground, the roar of live steam coming up under pressure from vents and the gurgling mud pots which give the whole area a weird atmosphere. The snow was 12 to 15 feet deep in many places on the road in the park.

After driving for miles through beautiful tall pines and orchards they came to San Francisco. They drove across the San Francisco-Oakland bridge which is 4 1/2 miles long, and over the Golden Gate bridge, the longest suspension bridge in the world. Then taking a ferry they came past the 1939 fair grounds island and Alcatraz back to San Francisco. If one wishes to visit a foreign land there is a touch of each one within the city of San Francisco.

From here they drove to Yosemite National Park. This park is a magnificent panorama of domes, pinnacles, waterfalls, including a 4,233 foot tunnel. The total drop of Yosemite falls is 2,555 ft. A fire-fall is a nightly feature after the regular evening program at the camp. The burning wood is slowly pushed from a cliff over 1/2-mile high making a beautiful sight.

The Mariposa Grove of giant sequoia trees is also found in this park. In the General Grant National Park of big trees, the largest one is the General Grant tree, which has been dedicated as the nation's Christmas tree and at high noon on each Christmas day devotional and patriotic services are held at its base, attracting thousands of people. The Sequoia National Park contains the world's largest trees. The General Sherman tree is notable as being not only the largest tree in the forest but also the oldest and largest living thing in the world. It is 276 feet in height, 36 ft. in diameter and one limb is 120 ft. long and six feet in diameter.

From here they drove through deserts, past oil fields and orchards to Los Angeles, and while here they attended the services at Amee Semple McPherson's large Angelus temple. The temple seats

In the house shown above we find a very livable plan which is quite easy and less costly to build than a plan that is spread out over the property. Note the first floor arrangement which makes it possible to circulate from room to room with just a few steps. A large recreation room is in the basement and there is room for two good bedrooms and a bath on the second floor.

5000 and one hour before the services started it was packed to the doors. The temple, situated on a hill overlooking a large park, is a beautiful building. It has two galleries and large choir lofts on either side of the pulpit. There are many large stained glass windows depicting Biblical scenes. There is a watch tower upon the roof where people have prayed continuously for over 20 years and always at least one person is there. The temple keeps missionaries in many foreign countries and a commissary for the needy in Los Angeles.

Los Angeles and Long Beach are favorite tourist cities. While at Long Beach they had the opportunity of visiting the battleship West Virginia, the U. S. navy fleet having just come into harbor. The fleet is anchored about four miles out from shore and the trip out is made in a launch. At Glendale they visited an alligator and ostrich farm and the lion farm at El Monte where they saw the "movie" lion perform. Then leaving California with its orange, olive and fig orchards, its miles of vineyards and palm trees and beautiful flowers for desert country to Boulder Dam. The size of this dam is impossible to describe and figures are enormous. An elevator takes passengers to the bottom of the dam and then they walk through a passage-way, 625 feet long to the power house. The highway across the top is 40 feet wide and the dam is 626 ft. thick at the bottom and 1282 ft. long at the top and 727 ft. high. Six huge generators are installed, each one costing $1,000,000 and each having 43 carloads of material. Electric light and power for California is carried over the mountains in hollow copper wires, the cost of their light being 6-10 of 1 mill per kilowatt. Then some more desert which was really not but interesting. Yucca, cactus, Joshua trees, sand, painted rocks and scrubby sage and finally to Zion National Park and Bryce Canyon, whose formations take the shapes of castles and cathedrals, hanging bridges and leaning towers, spires and colonnades. All in a bewildering color of pale pink which deepens into rich reds, blues, greens, purples, tans and creamy whites.

From here to Grand Canyon, one of the Wonders of the World, is more than a mile deep, 4 to 18 miles wide and 217 miles long. It is too large to comprehend. At the museum telescopes are focused on special points of interest. Horses on the trails below could not be seen with the naked eye.

Then to Carlsbad Cavern of New Mexico, the largest and most spectacular cave in the world. There are 7 miles of underground rooms, which are indescribable in beauty, a fairy land of stalagmites and stalactites. The Big room has an area of a 40 acre farm with a 350 ft. ceiling. At noon lunch is served in a unique dining room with tables and benches provided for a rest period. Two high speed elevators furnish quick service to the dining hall 750 feet below the surface of the ground, 1894 people were in the crowd that day, 29 being from Illinois.

From here they went to Ciudad Juarez, Mexico but a brief visit was sufficient although the displays of native work and art are especially interesting.

On their way home they drove through 65 miles of petrified forest, the painted desert and many oil fields. Along the highway in Texas and Oklahoma dozens of Indians had their mud huts with blankets and pottery to sell to the tourists. Hundreds of Indian hogans are scattered through the desert country and they live pretty much alone except for their Indian dances and ceremonies which are held every month. The August ceremonial at Gallup, New Mexico lasts three days and is attended by people from all parts of the world.

Deer and bear are found in most national parks. In Yosemite park the deer are so tame that they will eat from one's hand. In this park the sleeping quarters are tents while the cooking is done outside. While here a bear ransacked the "eats," going from one tent to another and thus keeping half the campers awake and "shooting" him away.

With no car trouble of any kind, it was a delightful trip but we were glad to be back in good old Illinois.

DEVICES STAMP-PAD INK THAT WON'T BLUE

Washington—(AP)—A stamp-pad ink, which penetrates most kinds of paper so quickly that there is little or no blurring of the impressions when they are rubbed with the finger-tips immediately after they are made, has been developed at the National Bureau of Standards.

A stamp-pad filled with this ink has been in steady use for three months with only one re-inking in spite of the fact that the pad box has been left open nearly all the time.

German movie fans prefer scenes depicting life among the upper ten thousand to any other kind, according to the monthly magazine, "Der Deutsche Film."

Practical Copper Roofing for Small Houses Available

Copper roofing that is practical for even the small home is now available. This has been made possible by narrowing the sheets to a width of 16 inches, which reduces seam spacing to a point in keeping with small roofs and makes possible the use of thinner metal without sacrificing the strength, rigidity and wind resistance obtained from thicker sheets with wider seam spacing. These sheets, which weigh only 10 ounces per square foot, are more easily and quickly formed and assembled by experienced workers and thus reduce installation expense.

Some of the advantages of this type of roofing, is a low maintenance cost, a minimum of danger of leaks at flashings because snow and ice do not adhere readily to the smooth surface of copper, and a lowered insurance rate because the flying spark hazard is eliminated.

WORKERS GET SALT WITH THEIR WATER

Lincoln, Neb.—(AP)—Have you had your salt today?

Lincoln WPA workers get it in regular quantities from a water boy who hands out a spoonful with each cup of water. Project officials began the practice at the advice of physicians who noticed excessive perspiration had caused a weakened condition among a number of workers.

Lincoln business firms also have adopted the plan of placing salt-tablet dispensing machines beside drinking fountains.

SMALL HOMES • STORES

APARTMENTS • MODERNIZATION

by PAUL T. HAAGEN AIA

Hang a Shower On Bathroom Wall

Modern shower equipment, like almost everything else, has gone both "streamline" and scientific in design, but more pleasing, perhaps, to the home owner is the fact that it is now possible to attach a shower to almost any conceivable type of tub or install one in any sort of compartment or room layout.

No longer is it necessary to stop bathroom traffic and tear out plaster and wall or devise new piping. The newer shower fixtures, called addenda showers to match their attributes, convert bare tubs of almost any type into delightful shower compartments, require no wall or piping alteration and are not expensive.

One kind, chromium plated and designed to fit any built-in tub, requires only a change of spout and insertion of two screws, and can be attached by a master plumber in a few seconds. Most of these attachable showers are also equipped with a shower head which is scientifically designed to give a more spirited shower and save water, yet not clog or need cleaning.

ODD LOCKS ADD TO AUTHENTICITY OF NEW HOUSES

Many modern homes are patterned on colonial designs. These old houses often had big polished brass box locks, for a huge key, on the front door, and smaller ones of brass or iron on inside doors.

In those days the face of the trim around the doors was flush with the surface of the door, so that the little box that caught the latch when the door was closed was screwed to the face of the trim. Present practice is to set the trim forward, so if these old-fashioned box locks, or rim locks, are to be used, either the old method of flush trim should be adopted or a recessed plate used that will hold the latch and give the appearance of the little box on the trim.

Different Period Furniture May be Combined in House

If you plan to use your present furniture in the new home you are going to build, this should be considered when the architect draws up the plans. Harmony is an important factor in adjoining rooms and if you are planning on an informal modern dining room, when your living room furniture is, for instance, formal Georgian, it would be well to choose a plan that has the two rooms well separated.

Color may be the keynote on which two rooms of the same general character meet. One may have figured wallpaper, while the other has plain walls of one of the predominating colors in the paper. Carpeting, walls and draperies may be identical with a difference in the type of furniture or the color schemes of the room may be reversed, such as yellow walls and blue draperies in one, and blue walls and yellow draperies in one, and blue walls and yellow draperies in the other.

CABINET LAVATORIES.

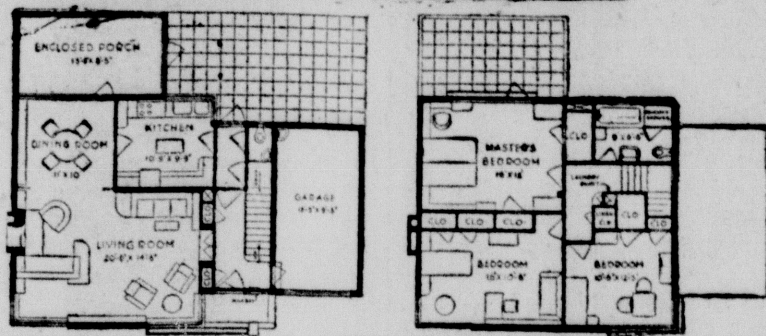

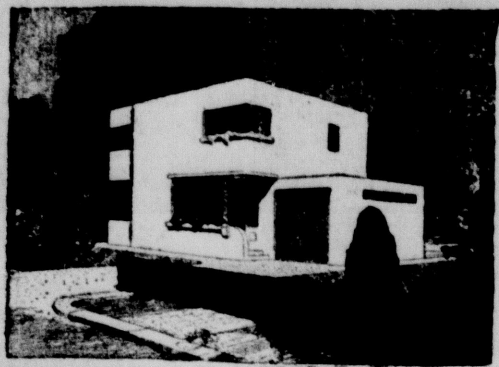

The new cabinet lavatories used in the bathroom have many advantages. First, there is a large amount of flat area on the top so there is plenty of space to place combs, brushes, cosmetic boxes, etc. Then there is plenty of space in the cabinet below to put away these things when the user is through, as well as storing towels, soaps, talcum and bath powders, etc.

Czechoslovakian imports of American feature films are running double those of last year. Czech imports of German films are about the same as in 1937.

Directly Fashioned Design

For people who are partial to extreme modern styles, this crisp, directly fashioned design should be most appealing. The plan is compact, wasting no corners and wasting no opportunity to bring light and air into the house. The white high lighting of this house against the green background of trees indicates distinctly the clean, bright surfaces of concrete, smoothly formed in the jointless walls and floors. Alexander Leidenfrost was the designer.

STUDENTS REGISTER

The registration for Walnut high school has not been completed but up to date it has been 130. Professor Snider expects 150 students when school opens. The registration shows 38 seniors, 32 juniors, 39 sophomores and 31 freshmen. The sophomores met on Monday to decide whether they would take up geometry or commercial and physical geography.

At the spring registration it was decided to make geometry an elective subject allowing the sophomores to take something else if they desire, and that alternative subject was commercial and physical geography. After checking up on the election most of the sophomores chose geometry. It was necessary for Prof. Snider to organize a second class with Mr. Mosher as teacher. Therefore it was necessary to have the sophomores meet and arrange a change in schedule, for the class was too large. There will be two divisions in geometry and no commercial and physical geography as the number who chose this would be too small to warrant a teacher's time and effort.

ORGAN INSTALLED

Rev. W. T. Street and the official board of the M. E. church are to be highly commended for their untiring efforts in securing a pipe organ for the church which will be officially dedicated on Sunday, Sept. 11. The large gothic grill back of the pulpit is constructed of beautiful oak to harmonize with the gothic architecture and windows of the church. The two paneled grills on the choir side are also of oak construction and harmonize with the decorations of the church. The console is located at the west side of the choir loft and is constructed of solid walnut, the finish being the same as the panels which harmonize perfectly. The console is a 2-manual with 35 stops. At the rear of the church and near the vestibule is a set of 20 chimes placed in an oak case with a silver tone finish and open to show their beauty. The chimes, like all other parts of the organ, are wired directly to the console. The pipes are placed in a perfectly sound proof room, celotex and wool being used for the foundation and filling with a hard wood covering. The organ was purchased through R. M. Barclay of Davenport, Ia., of the Wicks Organ Co., Highland, Ill., and the engineer in charge is James Wickhardt of Milwaukee, Wis. The organ has not been completed, there still being a set of pipes to be placed but it will be in condition to be used for Sunday services. Mrs. Helen Wheeler is the church organist and was organist for two years in the Presbyterian church of Dixon before her residence in Walnut. Bernell Ross is the organist for the Sunday school period. A more detailed description of the organ and the dedication program will be given for Sept. 11. It is to be hoped many of town people and especially those interested in this form of music will be present at one or all of the services.

Before we start delivering coal this fall we'd like a chance to work on that basement of yours. The darkest of them can be economically converted into an attractive Rumpus Room that will be a pleasure and a great source of satisfaction.

P. S. You'll wish you had one when the youngsters start doing that new "Yam" dance this winter.

Billy (at dinner): "Dad, are caterpillars good to eat?" Dad (severely): "Haven't I told you never to mention such things at the table?" Mother: "Why did you ask that question, Billy?" Billy: "I just saw one on Dad's lettuce, but it's gone now."

See us for reliable FHA information.

He had been to a stag dinner and his wife wanted to hear all about it when he got home. "Well," he said, "one rather odd thing occurred. Jim Blankton got up and left the table because some fellow told a risqué story he did not approve of."

"How noble of Mr. Blankton," exclaimed his wife. "And what was the story, John?"

"Have you ever had any stage experience?" "Well, I had my leg in a cast once."

A Yankee was on a walking tour in Scotland. Snow had fallen, and he was struggling along a narrow road when he met a Highlander.

"Is there a reward out for ye?" asked the Highlander.

"No," answered the American.

"Well, ye're still lost," was the reply.

SOUTH CAROLINA "OUSTER" FAILS

Tuesday's primary elections in South Carolina and California failed to follow President Roosevelt's prescription for what ails us. In California William Gibbs McAdoo, incumbent, who had been patted on the back by the New Deal, was defeated for renomination by a candidate who promised the aged a pension of $30 a week and naturally got the most votes. To that extent the issue was clouded. In South Carolina the issue, as Roosevelt himself said, was clear. Senator Smith, against whom the president really went to town, was renominated over Olin D. Johnston. Senator Smith, the president said, thinks in terms of yesterday. Johnston, said Mr. Roosevelt, thinks in terms of "1938, 1948 and 1958" as well. Roosevelt failed to save his man in California, and was unable to destroy a United States senator in South Carolina.

Looking back over the record of primary elections, it will be remembered that the first political casualty resulting from the New Deal's effort to pack the supreme court was our own Senator William H. Dieterich of Illinois, who saw the handwriting on the wall and gave way to Scott W. Lucas, a court-packing foe.

Candidates openly or covertly backed by the administration, who have been defeated include Representative Wearin of Iowa; Congressman Maverick and McFarlane of Texas; William E. Dodd of Virginia; Senator Pope of Idaho; Olin D. Johnston of South Carolina and McAdoo of California.

Administration candidates who have won include Senators Lester Hill of Alabama; Pepper of Florida; Reynolds of North Carolina; Thomas of Oklahoma; Barkley of Kentucky; Caraway of Arkansas and Bulkley of Ohio.

On the theory that the incumbent has a strong advantage over an opponent and can be expected to win, the defeat of Maverick and McFarlane of Texas, Pope of Idaho and McAdoo in California and the retreat of Dieterich in Illinois are important from an anti-New Deal standpoint.

SOURCE OF WATER FOR THE PUMP

Judging by the popularity which pump priming retains among New Dealers, one is led to consider the sources by which the money is raised. In the past the New Deal has been borrowing the money from the citizens intended to be benefited by the spending. Taxation at the present rate would not raise the funds, and the government is afraid to increase taxes to a point where it can pay as it goes. Obviously it would be beneficial if we could secure the money without either borrowing or taxation, and it is strange that the financial experts at Washington have passed up a possible source.

In their quest of funds they have not considered as a resource the 12 billion dollars owed us by Europe as result of the World War. Twelve billion would supply us with funds for two 5-billion spending jags, pay the expenses of government for a spell and provide a surplus for several Rooseveltian fishing-purging trips.

On the basis of a United States population of 140 million, the 12 billion would amount to about 85 for each American citizen. If the mere squandering of money to achieve recovery, stability and confidence is the ideal of the forces now in command at Washington, then here is a golden opportunity if they only could collect.

Collecting would be difficult. The experiment of simply handing the defaulters a bill prior to the installment dates has failed. In fact, it has become ridiculous. We have not taken an attitude sufficiently firm to assure the overseas politicians that we mean business. If France and Britain, ringleaders of the defaulters, should hear that the United States is tempted to seize some of their colonies in the western hemisphere to satisfy the debts, no doubt they would take serious thought. They would assume, in their involved and indirect way, that the moment they become embroiled in a new European war we would promptly grab British and French Guiana and perhaps also the Bermudas and hold them until a satisfactory debt settlement was made.

If, as stated, the debt dodgers could be made to suspect the United States of any such design, we venture to say that one of two things would happen:

The impending European war would be postponed indefinitely, or a debt solution satisfactory to the honor of the United States would be reached speedily.

We base this double-barreled guess upon the famous acquisitiveness of the British in territorial matters. It comes easy for them to take charge of property under any pretense. But once they land their troops and run up the flag there is no known method of dislodging them short of war to the hilt. Some years ago some one suggested that the British, in payment of their war debt, give up the Bermudas and a number of coaling stations off our shores, and the answer was a scream of anguish that echoed clear around the world. The Mistress of the Seas austere said she did not hand her dependents about as though they were mortgaged cattle. The counter-charge was that the Mistress of the Seas has been known to do a little cattle rustling on occasion, when the best interests of humanity run in that direction, but the remark didn't make a dent.

As to whether natives of British and French Guiana prefer to be exploited by their present governments, or whether they would prefer to have a chance at occupying a position like Hawaii, we do not remember that anybody ever asked them.

Any process which the United States might utilize to predict today the outcome of the dramatic fight between John L. Lewis and Homer Martin for control of the United Auto Workers. Lewis is a veteran, resourceful battler, and many things can happen before the curtain rings down on the struggle.

Washington—No one can safely

But one thing is certain: Young Homer Martin will be no push-over. No one is more acutely aware of this than Lewis. Whatever else he may think about Martin—and it's plenty—Lewis is not taking him lightly. He is paying Martin the unexpressed compliment of fighting him with every available resource.

That is very sound strategy. For while Martin is impulsive, temperamental and erratic, he is also a man of courage and tenacity. It is possible that he will be out-manuevered and out-fought, but he won't be scared and he won't be bluffed.

His career is conclusive proof of this.

Crossing Preacher

Born in 1902 and raised near Marion, Ill., a coal mining region, Martin witnessed a number of bloody strikes that made an indelible impression.

Son of a school teacher, his first leaning was toward the ministry, and at the age of 19 he became pastor of the Goreville, Ill., Baptist church, later graduating from William Jewell college at Liberty, Mo., in 1928.

Shortly afterward he took over the Baptist church in Leeds, Mo., a suburb of Kansas City. It was here that Martin started his career as a labor leader.

A large part of his congregation were auto workers, and Martin became interested in their efforts to increase wages and reduce hours. When he took to preaching pro-labor sermons, his deacons protested, insisted that he confine himself to the gospels. Martin's answer was to throw up his pulpit and get a job in a Kansas City auto plant.

From then on he was continually in the center of union activity. He took a leading role in attempting to unionize his plant and was fired for his pains. Shortly thereafter he was elected president of the local he helped to organize. The same year he was chosen a delegate to the first national meeting of auto union locals.

Later, when these locals were given a charter as an international union by the A. F. of L., Martin was appointed a vice president under Francis J. Dillon, the hand-picked boss put at the head of the new union by William Green.

The Green-Dillon domination of the UAW was short-lived. In 1936, Martin and a group of other young militants convened a convention at South Bend, Ind., declared themselves independent of the A. F. of L., ousted Dillon and elected Martin president. Shortly thereafter the union entered the C. I. O., and launched an expansion drive that in 18 months made it the second largest CIO affiliate and one of the five largest unions in the country.

Lucky Escapes

Martin's rise as a big-shot labor chief has been as turbulent as it was meteoric. His life has been threatened repeatedly. While engaged in organization work in Kansas City with William Polley, a close friend and business agent for the truck drivers, Martin was warned that their lives were in danger if they didn't "lay off." The two men continued their union activity. On October 11, 1930, Polley was shot and killed. Martin, then visiting his home in Illinois, escaped.

More recently, while motoring to Detroit with two UAW members, Martin was warned that the men were thugs who had been planted in the union to get him. The men were searched and found to be armed.

It was after this experience that Martin got a bodyguard. His UAW foes charge that the guard actually is a "goon squad," used by Martin for strong-arm purposes, but he insists it is to protect him from attempts on his life.

Poor Executive While a great platform speaker, Martin is a poor executive, dislikes administrative details, and lets his associates take care of the routine work of the union.

Nimble-witted and quick on his feet, he is not a deep thinker, and one of his frequent faults as head of the giant UAW is that he fails to think through the things he tackles.

At one time, Martin belonged to the Socialist party and still is class-conscious. His present politics can best be described as New Deal and pro-Governor Frank Murphy of Michigan. Or to use Martin's own remark to Jim Farley at the recent session of the Michigan State Democratic convention:

"There are only two kinds of Democrats we auto workers are interested in: the Roosevelt kind and the Murphy kind. Just remember that."

Behind the dissension within the United Automobile Workers, on one hand, and between Martin and John L. Lewis are two factors:

1. Homer Martin's own emotionalism and ambition.

2. Bitter factionalism within the union induced partly because of its associates.

Over a year ago, John L. Lewis was asked by members of the Auto Workers to intervene. He replied:

"These are just growing-pains. These officers (meaning Martin, et al.) were elected by the men themselves, and you've got to let people in the individual unions work things out for themselves."

So John L. Lewis let Homer Martin work things out for himself. He wishes now that he had not done so. If Lewis had stepped in earlier he would not have the mess on his hands he has now.

Life Saver Real fact is that Lewis kept the Auto Workers together when they were almost on the rocks during the worst of last winter's unemployment. At that time he went to both Roosevelt and Governor Murphy, arranging for extra relief funds to be given to unemployed members of the union. He even arranged that union leaders should co-operate in specifying who was eligible for relief.

Also the International Ladies' Garment Workers lent $250,000 to the Auto Workers, without which they would hardly be in existence today.

First Church in 1843.

The Baptist church was organized in 1843 in Jonathan Peterson's log house with 13 members. It was known as the First Baptist church of Palestine Grove. To accommodate the members, meetings were held alternately on opposite sides of the grove at the homes of worshippers until the school house came, when that, as a rule, became the meeting place in the different localities. In 1854 meetings began to be held in Benton's hall, about half a mile west of the site of the church where they now assemble. There they continued until November, 1858, when the building in the village where the congregation now worships, and which had been built at a cost of $5,000, was dedicated. The society also had a parsonage, which has been sold.

The first organization of the Methodist Episcopal church was effected at the house of Levi Camp of Knox Grove, about 1846. Meetings were held at private residences and at Knox Grove school house, until the town hall was available at the village, when the meetings became localized at that place. In 1870, a church was built in the village and dedicated the next year. Services continued seven or eight years when the society was abandoned and the property sold, since which time Sublette has been without a Methodist church. Circuit riders supplied the pulpit.

A Congregational church was established April 20, 1871. This, like the other societies held its meetings in the town hall. Soon, however, a building was begun and when completed had cost about $5,000.

The Society of the Evangelical Association of North America erected a building in 1864. It is now closed, and the organization once strong, has disbanded.

The establishment of the first Protestant church in Sublette township took place about 95 years ago. The first church erected in the township was built by the Baptist congregation in April, 1843 when the church roll carried 13 charter members. Rev. Henry Headley of LaMoille was the first pastor.

The present Union church edifice was built before the Civil war and was dedicated in November, 1858. The edifice remains today as when built, with but very few changes having taken place. The steeple which was of an unusual type of architecture to be found in this locality, was partly removed a few years ago, but the building itself stands as it was originally constructed. Stone walls which extend several feet from the ground level, the older residents of Sublette state, the stone was hauled overland from a quarry near what is now Lee Center.

One of the early congregations to organize a church in Sublette, erected a building near the Illinois Central railroad tracks, but occupied the structure for a very brief space of time. The many trains which then passed over the railroad created so much noise that the services were disturbed and the building was soon abandoned. Deaths which occurred among the founders of Sublette township, removals from the locality and changing locations, brought about the establishment of the Sublette Union church in 1912 when the remaining parts of all the Protestant congregations united. There were 33 charter members and the present church, which at that time belonged to the Baptists was used until purchased by the Union congregation.

Rev. Darrell A. Davis, a popular young pastor, who has served the church for about two years, is now in charge. Under his pastorate the church property has been materially improved. The church is equipped to provide for large gatherings and has a spacious dining hall and modern kitchen in the basement which has been improved this summer. About a year ago the church auditorium was redecored and the exterior repainted. This material improvement was made possible by Miss Anna Erbes and her brother William, in memory of the late Miss Christina and George Erbes, their sister and brother.

STATE'S CASE AGAINST HINES NEARS THE END

New York, Sept. 3.—(AP)—With the presentation of testimony intended to corroborate the accusations of gangland informers that James J. Hines shared liberally in the profits of a $20,000,000 policy racket, District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey's case against the Tammany district leader was near completion today.

When the trial recessed yesterday until Tuesday, at the end of its third week, 39 witnesses had testified. Approximately 10 more prosecution witnesses were scheduled.

With the end of the state's case in sight, the most frequent question heard around the courtroom was: "Will Hines take the stand?"

The grizzled Democratic, enraged once to the point of denouncing a witness in open court as a liar, had declared he would welcome an opportunity to meet with and words with young Dewey, racket-busting Republican prosecutor.

One of many successive elixirs in the startling story of intrigue, gunnery and corruption placed before the jury was reached at the end of yesterday's session when Mrs. Rose Wendroff, sister of Dixie Davis, dapper little gang lawyer, testified she personally had delivered money to Hines four or five times.

With her testimony was offered a $500 check which she said she had given to Hines. This was the first written evidence purportedly linking Hines directly to the racket which Davis represented in court. The check was made out to "cash" and bore on its back the name "J. Hines," which Dewey acknowledged was not in the defendant's handwriting.

Mrs. Wendroff will resume the stand Tuesday for further cross-examination.

Miss Evelyn L. Kreim and Clarence Vroegindewey Pledge Nuptial Vows

Pure white Calla lilies in the radiant glow of candlelight screened the living room mantel at the Frank H. Kreim residence on East Everett street this afternoon, when the elder of the Kreims' two daughters, Evelyn Lorraine, exchanged marriage vows with Clarence Vroegindewey of Hammond, Ind., only son of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vroegindewey of Grand Rapids, Mich. The Rev. Herbert J. Doran, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, read the single ring ceremony at half after 3 o'clock in the presence of 75 relatives and friends.

Palms and ferns formed the background of green for the white beauty of the lilies, tied with ivory satin ribbon to form a crescent-shaped festoon from the mantel, with ivory tapers gleaming down on the scene from tall seven-branched candelabra. Potted ferns and palms also screened the open stairway.

Miss Lola Quick, pianist, played a 20-minute nuptial prelude, and the Lohengrin wedding march, which was the signal for Miss Leone Kreim, who was her sister's maid of honor, and the bride to descend the stairs.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, departed from tradition, and instead of wearing white, chose a gown of dusty rose taffeta, designed on quaint colonial lines, with puff sleeves, fitted bodice and very full skirt edged with ruching and extending into a slight train. A V-shaped neckline, trimmed only with a narrow ruffle, was made distinctive by a flat bow of rose-colored velvet that went from neck to waistline. Valley lilies, white roses and ageratum formed her colonial bouquet, edged with a lace paper frill, and in her hair was a tiny spray of yellow button chrysanthemums, white sweetpeas and ageratum. Her only ornament was a gold locket.

Her sister chose turquoise blue taffeta, with short puff sleeves, close fitting bodice, and full, tucked skirt, trimmed with a bow of sapphire velvet. A small bow of matching velvet was fastened in her hair, and she carried a colonial bouquet of valley lilies, Briarcliff roses and delphinium.

Mrs. Kreim was wearing teal blue silk crepe with a gardenia corsage for her daughter's wedding.

John Boest came from Milwaukee, Wis., to serve as best man.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Kreim home. Mrs. Carl Staab of Lakeview, Iowa, supervised the serving of a buffet supper. A pink and blue nosegay of spun sugar roses topped the snowy-tiered bride's cake on the lace-covered refreshment table, lighted by pink and blue tapers.

Later, Mr. Vroegindewey and his bride were waved away on a ten-day wedding trip to Winnipeg, Canada. For traveling, the bride changed to a street frock of blue silk crepe with wine-colored accessories.

The couple will be at home after Sept. 15 in an apartment at 248 West Waltham street, Calumet City, Ind. The bride, who was graduated from Dixon high school in 1932, and the University of Illinois four years later, is affiliated with Alpha Omicron Pi sorority. For the past two years, she has been employed in the offices of the Illinois Northern Utilities company. Mr. Vroegindewey, a graduate of a Grand Rapids, Mich., high school, is an Illinois alumnus of '36, and is associated with the Personal Finance company in Hammond.

Out-of-town relatives attending included Mr. and Mrs. Carl Staab and daughters, Phyllis and Janet, Lakeview, Iowa; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Specht, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Specht, and Mrs. William Peterson, Clinton, Iowa; Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vroegindewey, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cross, Grand Rapids, Mich.; and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Vroegindewey, Chicago.

More than 60 guests will witness the single ring ceremony, to be read at 12:30 P. M. by the Rev. Frank A. Campbell.

Cathedral tapers in seven-branched candelabra will light the altar. Miss Mabel Oakland of Rochelle, church organist, will play nuptial songs and accompany Miss Louise Hazelton of Rochelle, who will sing.

The bride has chosen a modish fall suit of hunter green wool with fitch trim and brown accessories for her wedding. At her shoulder will be fastened a cluster of gardenias.

The bride's elder sister, Mrs. Dutton Gove of Newton, Iowa, is to be her only attendant. She will be wearing a black wool suit with black accessories, and a corsage of Tallman roses.

Travelers Provide News for Labor Day Weekend; Many are Coming and Going

If a composite guest book could be made up for Dixon this weekend, the last holiday week-end of the summer, it would be found to contain a fascinating list of names. The E. M. Goodells of 317 East Fellows will be entertaining distinguished guests, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Baker of Whitewater, Wis., who are arriving in time for dinner tonight. Mr. Baker is president of the Whitewater bank and state normal regent.

SOFTBALL CHAMPS ARE CALIFORNIA MARKET PLAYERS

Trounce Home Lumber at Airport to Win the Title

Champions all—Al Boyd, Roy Kuhn, Red Ellis, Paul Potts, Shires Miller, Francis Henry, Sam Bellows, Oscar Witzleb, Joe Murphy, Hi Emmert, Slats Hasselberg and Ernie Morris!

Today these members of the California Market team stand as undisputed champions of the city's softball league after their victory over Home Lumber 17 to 1 at the Airport ball park last night. But like the Washington Redskins of football fame, the Market players face stiff competition on September 11 when they will play the softball All Stars in a post-season event. Diamond-studded gamblers are calling the odds even for that affair.

There wasn't any struggle last night as the champions mauled Home Lumber from the start of the first inning to the final out. In celebration of their win players hopped all over the field, playing nearly every position they had ever hoped to handle. Shires Miller did a little pitching and the infield mixed up like a deck of cards.

Home Lumber Scores

Home Lumber took their only tag at the keystone in the second inning when Bevilacqua reached first on the rightfielder's error, went to second on a bad peg by catcher trying to nab him off base, took third on a passed ball and scored on an error by the first baseman.

California Market took runs in all but the second chapter and started the game with five runs off two hits in the initial frame. All but one player came in for runs during the game and all but one got at least one hit. Witzleb, Bellows and Henry collected home runs. All in all, the Market players got 16 hits from the combined efforts of Bevilacqua and Emmert on the mound.

Ernie Morris, hurling for the champs, allowed only three hits, walked none and struck out four.

I. N. U. WINS

In the opening game last night the I. N. U. had a little trouble with the Knacks, but overcame the difficulties to win 9 to 7 in a well played game.

The Knacks, playing with only nine men, were leading in the score at the end of the first and second and again at the end of the fourth.

In the first inning the Phillies took two runs when both Wright and Konkrite were walked and both came in after Parker drove out to right field. Konkrite's double scored Fordham in the second inning and Tucker came in on an error in right field after taking first on a hit.

Fane's single scored Withers in the first inning for I. N. U. and Lebre scored in the second frame on an error by the catcher.

I. N. U. scored three runs—all on errors—in the third inning and Emmert scored on Hall's hit in the fourth.

Three runs scored for the Knacks in the fourth on a double by Kelly. That was the last bid of victory. The gas, light and power lads took three runs in the first of the fifth to clinch the game.

Barnhart was on the mound for I. N. U. and allowed seven hits, walked four and struck out five. Max Fordham did the hurling for the Knacks and allowed 11 hits, walked two and struck out four.

Radio "Hams" First Convention Convenes in Chicago this Morn

Chicago, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Radio "hams" of the nation who know each other by call letters via transmitters and receivers met face to face in convention today.

It was the first national convention in 14 years of the American Radio Relay League, founded in 1914 by the late Hiram Maxim.

Several thousand of the radio amateurs who chatter a jargon of watts and meters, condensers and voltage unintelligible to the layman were expected. League officials said it had 28,000 members out of 47,000 licensed amateurs in the United States.

A "ham" must really go in for short wave amateur radio as a hobby to be properly within the circle; professional radio men are set apart by the "hams."

There are 4,000,000 horses in Poland, enough to take all the inhabitants riding simultaneously.

FANFARE

FOOTBALL SPECIAL.

There's football in the air these days—baseball in the city is nearing its end and the major leagues are on the home stretch toward the World Series; George Covert has been crowned the city's tennis champion, Don Budge and Bobby Riggs are headliners in the Davis Cup matches which wind up the tennis thrills; the local swimming pools are cooling off a little, there's an early morning fog over Lowell park beach; national golf is sweeping into the last lap with the amateur title at stake, Ken Detweiler has cracked the record at Plum Hollow in one of that golf course's last events and tomorrow the Dixon Knacks fight for the title of the Illinois Baseball League in a post-season play-off. There's no doubt about it, summer is winding up, preparing to fold her tents and steal silently away leaving the spotlight to FOOTBALL. There'll be more about these summer sports in the days to come—but to start the season off today's edition of this department devotes itself entirely to the gridiron sport.

MEMBERS OF CONFERENCE.

Members of the North Central conference are: Dixon, Belvidere, DeKalb, Mendota and Sterling.

MEETING FOR COACHES.

Coach Lindell of the Dixon high school spent Monday and Tuesday of this week at a meeting for coaches at Urbana.

COACHING STAFF.

Members of the Dixon high school's football staff are: A. C. Bowers, athletic director; C. B. Lindell, head football coach; Marvin M. Winger, assistant; L. E. Sharpe, coach of freshmen football.

PRO STUFF.

Lou Gordon, veteran tackle of the Chicago Bears Football club, who played five seasons with the Cardinals and the last two with the Green Bay Packers, is the club's oldest. He is 30. He took the examination as an instructor of English in the Chicago public schools and is a licensed wrestling referee in the state.

WHIZZER'S BROTHER.

When Whizzer White's brother stopped in Dixon it was at the Strub and Schultz gas station instead of the one named in the interview with the star halfback's brother. Strub and Schultz own the station named last night and of course it is now under their name. Even gas stations get married and change their names, it seems.

OLD HANDS.

Among the older hands at the game who appeared at the first practice for high school pigskin handlers yesterday afternoon were Page, Palmer, Moore, Rinehart, Richard, Swan, Slothower, Asheford, Christo, Bush, Bevilacqua, Wiennan, Mantsch, Shiaras and Vaessen. Bush and Christo played two years ago but were not here last year. It's too early in the game to ask for any forecasts, but experience always helps.

UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS.

The Orange and Blue last year had a record of three wins, three losses and two tie games. Illini boys scored 59 points to 45 by their opponents. Atty. Fred Gardner was referee at the state university's games with Northwestern at Urbana and the last game at Chicago. The season opens September 24 with Ohio University at Athens, a game offered for Boy Scouts and high school pupils. The first Big Ten game is with Indiana at Urbana on October 8.

DRAKE DOINGS.

Francis Henry of Dixon looks like a sure one for the halfback position on the Drake varsity. Other outstanding Dixon athletes who are favoring Drake in all their bets and who are expected to be trotting the halls in this Des Moines college are Don Barnhart, Bob Underwood and Bob Evans. In the 1937 season Drake won 8 games, lost two and tied none. The total number of points scored were 235 to the oppo-ents' 73. Drake plays Northwest-ern at Evanston on October 8.

DIXON SCHEDULE.

As a member of the North Central Illinois conference the Dixon high school has three home games, one open date and five out-of-town battles. The complete schedule is as follows:

Sept. 17—At Rock Falls.
Sept. 23—At Rockford (night game).
Sept. 30—Alumni game (afternoon).

OCT. 8—At Mendota.

OCT. 15—At Belvidere.

OCT. 22—At Geneseo.

OCT. 29—DeKalb here.

NOV. 5—Open.

NOV. 11—Sterling here.

FIRST PRACTICE.

It wasn't much like football weather as the call was issued for the first practice of the high school fellows yesterday afternoon—and there was a lot of steam-heated footballers before the session was over. Suits and lockers were assigned yesterday and by the time we got there the fellows were doing a little dummy practice—brushing up and learning how to tackle and block. Temporary positions were named for a little snapping from center and signals. Soon everyone was running, punting and plunging down the field.

CANDIDATES.

Among those who appeared for the initial football practice yesterday afternoon at the Dixon high school athletic field were: A. Handell, S. Schrock, R. Lee, W. Koon, D. Youngmark, E. Page, W. Walder, R. Buxton, H. Quick, J. Greer, R. Sanborn, R. Travis, F. Sanford, J. Pierce, D. Valle, R. Arnold, R. Edous, F. Forman, J. Smith, A. Tofte, R. Cotte, Bruce Palmer, J. P. Moore, E. Rinehart, T. Richards, A. Swan, W. Slothower, G. Asheford, R. Rhodes, W. Christo, P. Marth, R. Bush, L. Bevilacqua, J. McGrail, R. Reese, A. Wiennan, E. Kelchner, H. Mantsch, G. Shiaras, W. Denison, E. Christman and W. Vaessens. Forty-five—count 'em! More are expected out after the holiday.

AMBOY ACTIVITIES.

Half of Amboy Township high school's grid games will be played at home this fall. Eight contests have been scheduled. The opener is with Mendota and will be played there on September 23. Morrison will play at Amboy on September 30 and Amboy will go to Rock Falls on October 8. Mount Morris plays in Amboy October 12. Amboy goes to Polo October 21. Rochelle plays at Amboy on October 28 and Amboy journeys to Oregon on November 5. The season will close with Sterling Community high's gridsters appearing in Amboy in the annual Armistice Day game. Suits and equipment were assigned on Thursday and according to Coach Dominetta, new equipment has been purchased and complete outfits were given to each candidate. He stated that the school's supplies are now the best they have ever had.

ATTENDANCE RECORD

Added to Bees' Crown

Chicago, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Evansville had the season's attendance record today to add to its 1938 Three-Eye League championship, which it clinched more than a week ago.

A crowd of 6,946 paid its way into the Bee park last night to watch the league-leaders open the final series of the regular season and to honor Manager Bob Coleman, but the second place Decatur Commies walked off with the ball-game, 4 to 2.

ROCHELLE TEAM DEFEATS DIXON IN TOURNAMENT

Finals to Be Played Tonight; Rochelle vs. Amboy

Reynolds Wire of Dixon took it on the chin in the Ashton softball tournament last night to be eliminated from the running by the strong Del Monte team of Rochelle. The local lads went down under a blanket of 14 to 6—completely smothered.

The Ashton boys lost to Amboy in the nightcap game which lines up Amboy and Rochelle for the championship game tonight. The first game will be a play off between the defeated teams of last night to determine the third place winners.

In the first inning for Reynolds Wire nothing happened but Rochelle took matters into their hands to make up for the loss of activity to start the game. Daub doubled and went to third on a passed ball. Van Curra walked and stole second. Scher singled scoring Daub and Van Curra. Eckhardt sent a long single to centerfield and went to second on a throw to home in an attempt to catch Scher. Cooper and Ward were both out from pitcher to first. Russell came up and beat out a single to score Eckhardt. Schafer doubled, Russell scored and Schafer scored when the shortstop threw the ball into the stands trying to nab him. Halsey struck out to end the inning with six runs, five hits and two errors.

3-Up—3-Down

It was three-up-and-three-down for the Dixon team in the second chapter and with two away Van Curra of Rochelle singled in their half of the inning and stole second. Scher singled scoring Van Curra and went to second on the throw. Eckhardt reached first on the shortstop's error and Scher went to third. Eckhardt stole second. Cooper singled scoring Scher and Ward drove on to centerfield to end the frame with three runs, three hits and one error.

After Becker and McConaughy both struck out in the Reynolds' half of the third, Spinden singled and Daub made a catch of Fordham's foul ball against the stands to end the inning.

In the fourth inning Rochelle scored two runs from two hits when Cooper doubled scoring Daub who had doubled and Eckhardt who had been walked.

One run scored for Reynolds in the last of the seventh when the bases were filled on three errors and Wolford was walked to force in Eddie Grove.

In the first half of that same frame Del Monte collected three runs from three hits. Scher reached first on a third baseman's error, Eckhardt singled sending Scher to third and stole second. Cooper was out to shortfielder who made a beautiful nab but Scher scored after the catch. Eckhardt and Ward who had singled both took advance bases on passed balls. Russell was out to shortstop. Schafer singled to score Eckhardt and Ward was out from rightfielder to first to second to end the inning.

Fail to Score

In the first of the eighth Whitman singled for Del Monte but failed to score. In the last of the inning Reynolds collected three runs off four hits when McConaughy tripled and Spinden tripled to score McConaughy. Spinden scored when Eckhardt threw over home plate and hit the umpire on the head. Fordham doubled and E. Grove singled scoring Fordham. Eddie took third on a passed ball but the next three were down when M. Grove struck out, Trotter drove out to right field and Cinnamon who came in to replace Winnebrenner in the sixth was out from third to first.

Two more runs scored for the Dixon team in the ninth when Wolford doubled, Nicklaus singled and reached third on the rightfielder's error and Wolford scored. Becker was out from third to first and Nicklaus scored. McConaughy went down from pitcher to first and the game ended with Spinden's down from second to first.

Whitman did the pitching for Rochelle and struck out nine. Daub as catcher completed the battery. For Dixon Fordham did the pitching and struck out 8 with Trotter behind the plate.

AMBOY WINS

In the night cap game the hosts of the tournament were defeated by Amboy 6 to 4. Amboy had 5 runs, 8 hits and 6 errors while Ashton had 4 runs, 9 hits and 4

"CHIP SHOTS"

Country Club -- by -- Jack Fritzen

The event: The 1938 club championship 36-hole match.

The contestants: Kenneth Detweiler versus Harry A. Lazier, Jr.

The time: Tomorrow morning and afternoon.

The place: The Dixon Country Club.

Well, the stage is all set for the settlement of this year's question of club supremacy. Last year, one of the titlists was none other than Kenneth Detweiler. A perennial contender, Ken is again represented in the final elimination match. The newcomer to the title bracket is Harry Lazier, Jr., who has gained that enviable position by trouncing Bud Prescott, his pop and barely eliminating Em Rorer in a close decision on the last hole.

Ken is favored in the match because of tournament experience and coolness under fire when the going is hot. Too, Ken has come into the final round with the greatest of ease by swamping Frank Rorer, Mark Keller and Junior Joyce. Still, there comes a time when all champions fade, so the underdog in the fight may spring the upset. Lazier is by no means out of the running... so be there if at all possible to cheer on your favorite!

Sunday and Labor Day will see events that are enjoyable as well as unique at the club, Bill Foster has something "up his sleeve" which all holiday golfers should enjoy. You don't have to take to the road and travel over Labor Day... it will be much safer at the course... so we'll be seeing you there!

MEDWICK, DIMAG ON ROAD BACK IN HITTING RACE

New York, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Joe Dimaggio and Ducky Medwick started on the road back in the big league batting races this week.

Although Cecil Travis of Washington, with a one-point edge in the American League, and Ernie Lombardi of Cincinnati, boasting a comfortable 15-point bulge in the National, were still the top men, Dimag and Ducky Wucky each traveled at a better than 400 clip for the week to climb toward the front.

LARGE CROWD IS EXPECTED TO SEE PLAY-OFF BATTLE

Dixon to Play in Twin Bill at Maytown On Labor Day

Tomorrow is the day — and everything is set to handle one of the largest crowds which has ever attended a baseball game in this city when the folks pour into Reynolds field to watch the first game in the play-off of the tie in the Illinois State Baseball League. Walton meets Dixon, in case there is any doubt left.

This is the game the Knacks have been waiting for ever since the damp Sunday they were forced by rain to stop while they were leading 3 to 0. Dixon won the game by a ruling made by the league president, William Leisher but the feeling between the two teams has been as damp as that Sunday ever since. There never was much love between the rivals and that incident didn't help the situation, but it will help swell the crowd interested in tomorrow's game.

Harry Cone of DeKalb who umpired in the Southern League and Western League, will be the chief tomorrow and he is bringing with him another umpire with experience to handle the bases.

Battery for Walton

Louie Hoffman, pitching, and Full on the mound and Windmiller behind the mask.

The starting line-up for the team is as follows with the batting average of each given: Flanagan, 3b, .321; Martin, cf, .321; or Miller, cf, .281; Kuhn, lf, .342; Windmiller, c, .447; Ole Prestegard, p, .351; Harold Prestegard, ss, .291; Art Carlson, rf, .323; Henry, 1b, .235; Bus Carlson, 2b, .244.

William Leisher, president of the league, has stated that no team may use any outside players in the play-off of the tie. In case a player is sick or away at school and can not be present to play with his team, another player may be

fare Posts in Bureau and Ogle on Sept. 17

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 3 (AP)—John C. Weigel, old age assistance chief, said today many applicants for county welfare superintendents in 14 counties were being rejected because they failed to meet necessary qualifications.

Written examinations, the first step toward making appointments, are scheduled here September 17 for Bureau, Carroll, Hardin, Jersey, Johnson, Kane, Lawrence, McDonough, Ogle, Piatt, Randolph, Rock Island, Vermilion and Woodford counties.

Weigel said the tests will be the first held since the change last spring in the law which made the state, rather than county boards or commissions, directly responsible for appointments of county welfare superintendents.

THE CLOUDED MOON

By MAX SALTSMARSH

The Characters

Hugo Stern, handsome author, living on the French Riviera.
 Archie Lumsden, myself, Hugo's friend.
 Rene Geiss, a cartoonist with a distorted mind.

Yesterday: We find the most-thing-place of the Clubs des Sans Clubs, and observe Baron Stahl and the housekeeper leaving with a gang of villainous men.

Chapter 24

Meeting With A Banker

As I entered the corridor of the Chateau la Vague, a loose tile in the flooring cracked sharply under my tread, and on the instant a door opposite flashed open, and I saw the housekeeper standing staring out at me.

She was wrapped in a faded kimono. A pair of shell-rimmed spectacles perched inconspicuously on her nose, and she held a book in her hand. No one, to look at her, would have doubted that she had been spending a quiet evening in her room.

"You, Mr. Lumsden?" she said. "Have you been out?"

"It was useless to deny it, for the dust of the roads was thick on my shoes in my hand. 'Yes,' I said meekly, 'I've been calling on my friend, Mr. Stern.'"

"But how did you get in?" she parried sharply. "A key—someone gave you a key?" She pursed her lips tightly, ominously. "Pierre, of course," she said, half to herself, and then suddenly her expression lightened and she smiled. "You must not think I mind!" she said, with a sprightly archness that I found much more alarming than her disapproval. "Only, another time, if you will tell me during the day, I will give you a key myself."

I thanked her, promising obedience, and retired to my room, but as I undressed I was still uneasy, and the cause of my unease was, finally enough, the memory of her smile. There had been something so catlike, so indescribably sinister in the wrinkling of her small green eyes that I still seemed to see them gleaming at me.

As I threw my trousers across a chair, something jingled in a pocket, and I realized with a shock that the key still lay there. Either she had forgotten to ask me for it or had decided that I could do no more harm till morning; but I had to have that key, or a duplicate of it, and I could see that it wasn't going to be easy to hang on to it.

A thought struck me, I opened my door cautiously, and peered out into the corridor. All was dark; the door opposite was safely shut and the house was still and sleeping. With infinite caution I dropped to my knees, fumbled for the loose tile, and gently raised it with my nails. There was a little cavity beneath and into this I thrust the key, lowering the tile back into place without so much as a creak. Then, feeling uncommonly pleased with myself, I retired to rest.

I had locked my door and jammed a chair beneath the handle, and it seemed to me that I had barely laid my head on the pillow before a rattling at the key-hole brought me out of bed with a bound to find that it was morning, and that a buxom chambermaid was waiting impatiently to serve my coffee and rolls.

I gulped down my coffee, pulled on a pair of bathing-trunks, and made my way downstairs, a towel round my shoulders. As I crossed the lounge a sudden sound pulled me up in my tracks.

 It was the sound of a lift in action. The noise ceased abruptly, and an oblong tapestry at the end of a smaller corridor was pushed aside. An invalid's wheelchair was gently pushed out by the blue-overalled servant who had carried up my bag the night before.

Mr. Venner

It was an old, old man who sat crouched in the chair, a man with a bold, bony head and a fleshless face on which the parchment-like skin was stretched as tightly as an artist's canvas. The rheumy eyes looked sightless in their gaunt sockets, but as the servant wheeled him down the passage towards me, he glanced up sharply, with a quick, scrutinizing stare. Then he turned abruptly to the man behind him.

"Where is Pierre?" he demanded in a thin, brittle voice. "He knows that this is the hour for my promenade. How does he expect that you, alone, can take my chair to the beach?"

I stepped forward. "Can I be of any help?" I asked politely.

He looked at me considerably suspiciously. "You are English?" he demanded abruptly, and when I agreed, "Ah!" he said, and nodded to himself. "You are Mr. Lumsden. I heard you had arrived last night. Thank you!" he said suddenly. "If you give Amedee a little assistance, I'll be much obliged to you!"

We were almost at the door when a sudden sound made me turn my head, and I saw, standing beside us, tall, bony, grimly militant, the housekeeper. She gave me one glance and primly inclined her head in greeting; then: "Good morning, Mr. Venner," she said abruptly. "You're early today."

"Good morning, Henrietta," he retorted sharply. "I am not at all early—I am exactly punctual, and where, may I ask, is Pierre?"
 For a moment she hesitated, then she spoke with a seeming reluctance. "Pierre," she said, "has gone. He left at six o'clock this morning. He was guilty of a breach of discipline, and I was obliged to dismiss him."

The old man glared at her. "You were obliged to dismiss him?" he burst out. "And why, pray, was I not consulted? You take a great deal upon yourself, Henrietta. And who, may I ask, is to help with my chair down to the beach? You never thought of that, I suppose? If this gentleman had not offered his assistance, I should have been in a nice pickle."

"But Mr. Venner," she said hurriedly, "there is no need to trouble Mr. Lumsden. By tomorrow I will have another man, and for this morning I will send Marie."

"You will do nothing of the sort!" said he testily. "I'll not be dependant on a woman to get me safely to the beach. And another time, Henrietta, you'll please consult me before discharging one of the staff." He looked up at me with a senile smile. "Carry on, sergeant!" said he.

That brought me to myself with a jerk though, for a moment the realization that here under my nose was the second of the unholy triumvirate, Venner the banker himself, had knocked me into a flat spin.

"Ay, ay, sir!" I answered, grinning, and to her: "It's no trouble. I assure you, I shall enjoy it." And slowly and solemnly our little procession passed out across the sun-flooded terrace.

A Most Unpleasant Surprise

As we turned into the sloping path that led to the gate, the old gentleman spoke suddenly. "You know, sir," he said, "it is a great pleasure for me to talk to an English person again. I get very tired of these continentals and their chatter, very tired indeed." He checked a sigh. "Unfortunately my health does not permit me to return home, but I am always eager for news. Tell me—" a note of uncontrollable wistfulness.

ness crept into the thin voice — "how is London looking these days? Is it much changed?"

Filled with a queer, overmastering pity, I racked my brains and told him what I could of the strange new London that he would never see, feeling an unaccountable lump in my throat as I did so.

Once on the promenade, I tucked him up in his thick llama rug, while Amedee settled himself with a cigarette on a nearby chair; then threw off my towel and took a running header into the water. The beach had been deserted as we came to it, and for a while I disported myself in an empty ocean, revelling in the tingle of the buoyant water, but after ten minutes or so there came a sudden and most unwelcome interruption. A big, shabby touring car came rattling along the macadam and drew up, and half a dozen men in bathing-suits emerged.

I swam on another stroke or two, then turned on my back and floated lazily; and as I did so, the foremost men took to the water, wading through the shallows in a purposeful way and shouting to each other as they came. It was then that I received a most unpleasant surprise, for their leader was the fellow who had acted as doorman at the Caves des Muettes the night before.

It was a shock, and a nasty one at that, and as I floated on my back, to all appearances sunk in drowsy contentment, I did a minute's furious thinking. The thing was too pat, too neatly timed, to be accidental.

It had taken us a good fifteen minutes to reach the beach, and other five had passed in talk before I took to the water, and perhaps ten more while I swam. Thirty minutes in all, I thought, since we had parted from the housekeeper; time enough for her to telephone instructions; time enough for six men to collect a car, and drive along a kilometer of beach road to the bathing place; and as the thought came to me I remembered with a shiver Geiss's prophecy of my early suicide, and thanked my stars that I was a powerful swimmer, for all six men were in the water now.

I turned over, swam a couple of strokes, and beat water, as the nearest man approached me; but he gave no sign of being aware of my presence, driving on past me with a powerful over-arm stroke. The others seemed disposed to keep in nearer shore. Two of them had got an immense rubber ball and were playing a kind of elephantine water-polo. The other three—and then, as I looked, I metaphorically rubbed my eyes, for where there had been three, there were now only two.

Instinctively I looked down. The water, clear as crystal, showed every pebble and shell on the ocean bed, but there was no sign of the missing man; and even as I looked, a sudden outcry made me raise my head, and I saw the man farther out to sea fling up his arms with a sudden, despairing cry and disappear.

I had one glimpse of his distorted, agonized face, and then I struck out towards him, for I had seen men stricken down with cramp before. He came up again, thrashing the water and shouting hoarsely, and next instant I was beside him and had caught him by the hair. It was then that I knew just how many kinds of a fool I had been, for a pair of powerful hands gripped my throat, and at the same instant other hands grabbed me by the ankles, dragging me down.

Tuesday: Eavesdropping.

COIN DISAPPEARED—
BUT NOT AS PLANNED
 Rice, Lake, Wis.—(AP)—Bill Broten stood before the filling station asking for a half-dollar so he could demonstrate a "good trick."

Someone loaned him the coin whereupon Bill put it into his mouth, said "hocus-pocus" and then stood pop-eyed.

The coin was supposed to vanish but not the way Bill's hocus-pocus made it go.

Hospital X-rays showed the half dollar lying in Bill's stomach.

EDUCATES BY RADIO

SCHOOL OPENS TUESDAY.

A three-year modernization program of the grade and high school building has been completed this summer. Repair of the old window frames and sills plus a complete paint job on the exterior of the building has made the school house good for many years despite its forty-four years of useful service. Many improvements were made on the interior of the building, new blackboards being put in the first and second rooms, cork bulletin boards were erected where needed. The exterior doors and panic bolts have been replaced and modern adjustable seats have been put in the eighth grade room.

Large Grade Enrollment.

Over a hundred pupils are expected to enter the local elementary school this fall. Much of this increase is due to tuition pupils from rural schools whose enrollment have decreased to a point where it would be uneconomical to operate their own schools. It is quite probable that a fourth full time teacher will be added to the grade staff next year and thus provide an opportunity to offer junior high school work. This year's grade schedule is being augmented with new courses in Home Economics and Manual Arts for the seventh and eighth grades. The grade school faculty for the coming year is as follows:

Laverne Edwards—Departmental work; 7th and 8th grades; physical education.
 Miss Jeannette Baird — Departmental work; 4th, 5th, 6th grades; home economics and art.
 Miss Helen DeBray—Primary room.

Mrs. Bertha Rorick—Supervisor of grade music.
 N. A. Fox — Superintendent; manual arts.
Steady Growth of High School.

The last ten years have brought a steady increase in the high school enrollment. From a total student body of fifty-six in 1928 the number this fall is expected to run well over eighty students, a new record enrollment. This figure is even more significant in view of the fact that our community high school district board has steadfastly refused to solicit students from outlying territory by the use of illegally operated busses.

The high school curriculum will have several new courses this fall, reflecting the administration's attempt to make the school sensitive to community needs and changing times. Listed among these new courses are three in agriculture (soils and crops, animal husbandry and farm management. Others are advanced woodworking (machine course), applied psychology, senior science (a non-laboratory course covering practical chemistry and physics) offered to juniors and seniors; typing II.

The high school will have three new teachers this fall. The personnel is as follows:

Blanche Lyford, principal — Typing I and II; bookkeeping; algebra; geometry; school records and attendance.

Evan Kinsley — World history; psychology and sociology; economics and civics; Latin II; American history; librarian; physical education.

LaVerne Baker— Soils and crops; animal husbandry; farm management; activity manager.

John Mitchell—English I, II, III, IV; dramatics; school magazine and annual; basketball and track.

Edna Fisher — General home economics; foods and clothing; biology; general science; girls' physical education; general social chairman.

Mrs. Bertha Rorick—Vocal music classes; glee clubs.

Neil A. Fox, superintendent — Senior science; advanced woodworking; supervision and administration; orchestra.

Features of Interest.

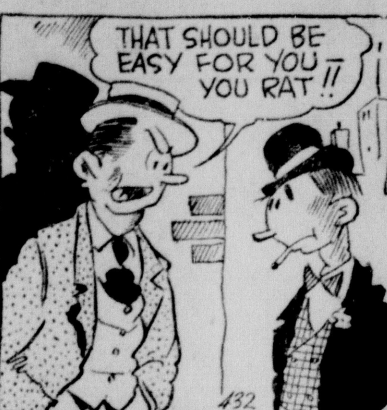

The coming year's work will center about activities directly related to individual and group guidance. Every possible effort will be made to adjust each pupil educationally, vocationally and socially. A new department in the school library will feature a wealth of material on occupational information. The real value of the guidance work will only come when the pupils are successfully aided in developing self-direction and self-adjustment.

Some of the more interesting events of the school calendar include a series of five assembly programs featuring nationally known talent, trips to various industrial centers, three school plays, a possible district basketball tournament, and participation in the "Little Ten" occupational conference.

Brain Twizzlers

By

PROF. J. D. FLINT

"Aw rats!" said the Twizzler as he pondered over a problem. "Yeah, rats and cats too", his companion replied. "I give up—this thing will drive me crazy." What was driving him crazy? Oh, just a simple little problem. This is it: If three cats can catch three rats in three minutes how many cats will it take to catch one hundred rats in one hundred minutes? You see, it really is simple. How about you, do you think so?

Answer to Yesterday's Twizzler.

The answer is not 42 eggs, it is 28 eggs. The hen does not lay an egg a day, she lays one egg in a day and a half.
